From the President Time waits for no one!

Although variations of this expression date back to the early 1200s, this phrase always comes to mind at the start of the New Year. Even when I resolve to eat only a "Mediterranean diet," worry less, play more golf, exercise more, or my favorite catch phrase of all "be a better person," I can't help but think, "didn't I just make these same resolutions last year? Where has the time gone?"

Throughout the year between our summers together, we may celebrate the birth of new babies and mourn the loss of family members or friends. This year is no exception as we welcome new life into the Assembly family and say goodbye to beloved members. It is definitely a time of taking stock of our lives.

Perhaps this is one of the reasons the Assembly is such a special place to all of us. Visitors often

From the General Manager Monteagle Sunday School Assembly Endowment Tops $5 Million

On January 17, the MSSA endowment fund topped $5 million. This is a seminal moment in the history of the fund and the future of MSSA. Eight years ago, when I was going through my orientation, the person who was appointed to bring me up to date on the endowment told me "The endowment fund is about $3 million. It has always been around $3 million and will probably always be."

Thinking this statement was the precursor of "fake news," I checked for myself. The first half of the statement was indeed true. The fund languished just above or just below $3 million for over a decade.

The second half of the statement thankfully has been proven wrong. During the past eight years, the awareness of the importance of a strong endowment has produced comment, “it’s like time stands still here,” and, in many ways, it does. We are fortunate to have a place where it often feels that there are a few more hours in the day to spend with family and friends. As we endure “the coldest winter” in years, we can dream of the upcoming summer season in this special place. I think I will add “spend more time at the Assembly” to my list of resolutions! This may be the one that I will actually keep!

significant increases in giving. The Monteagle Assembly Endowment Fund Board has provided visionary stewardship of the funds and investment strategy, and of course, the booming stock market of late has certainly helped.

Ultimately, it is you, our endowment donors who have effected this change. The MSSA Endowment is the principal funding agent for our summer program and provides some assistance across all operations. It is a consistent funding source that is central to the financial sustainability of the Monteagle Sunday School Assembly. We are grateful for your continued philanthropic support of all things Monteagle...and future generations will be as well.

*All the best for 2018,
Scott Parrish*

PS. If you are interested in establishing an endowed fund, or want more information regarding giving opportunities, please give me a call.

PLATFORM: Week 7 Spotlight

Every week at the Assembly is exciting and interesting, and Week Seven is no exception.

On Thursday, July 26, Rev. Becca Stevens will give an evening lecture entitled “How Love Heals.” The next evening, Friday, July 27, there will be a farm-to-table dinner in Harton Hall followed by a free concert by Becca’s husband, singer/songwriter Marcus Hummon in the auditorium.

His music is familiar to many of us. In addition to writing and performing his own music, Hummon has also co-written songs for many country music artists, including Top 40 singles for Tim McGraw, Wynonna Judd and Alabama, as well as three No. 1 country hits: “Cowboy Take Me Away” by the Dixie Chicks, “Born to Fly” by Sara Evans, and “Bless the Broken Road” by Rascal Flatts.

Whether you know him or not, his music is inspiring and will appeal to all ages.

Advance reservations for the Farm to Table dinner are required and must be made through the MSSA office; $25 - Adults, $10 - children 12 & under.

Saturday, July 28, brings the annual cottage owners meeting, the Mountain Market and the annual fish fry at Morton Memorial United Methodist Church ($12, Children - $6).

Mark your calendars; this weekend is very full, and we will all be educated, entertained and well fed!

Fun Facts About Valentine's Day

When was Valentine's Day first celebrated?

The exact origins of Valentine's Day are difficult to determine, but there are indications that the holiday may have roots in both Roman and Norman tradition dating back to ancient Roman history and about 300 C.E.

"Valentinus" is derived from the Latin word for worthy, strong or powerful. Because of this, "Valentinus" became a popular name for several martyrs between the second and eighth centuries A.D. The official list of Catholic martyrs recognizes approximately a dozen with name of Valentine or some type of variation. One was even a Pope.

Some credit Geoffrey Chaucer, the medieval English poet, with inventing the Valentine's Day that people celebrate today. In around 1375, Chaucer's poem "Parliament of Fowles" spoke about a tradition of love in association with the celebration of the St. Valentine's Day feast. Before this work, there were no known records of Valentine's Day. The United States, Canada, Mexico, France, Australia, and the United Kingdom all celebrate Valentine's Day. Americans began exchanging Valentine's Day cards in the early 1700s when Esther A. Howland began selling the first mass-produced cards. She is known as the "Mother of the Valentine."

What is the most popular candy given for Valentine's Day?

Chocolate, of course!

Howorth Honored

The name Howorth is almost as tightly tied to the artistic history of the Assembly as the name McCarty.

Longtime Assembly member Joe Howorth, also a Mississippian, was a respected lawyer and avid painter, and many of the Assembly's youth took art lessons from him during the summer. He was also known for setting up his pallet and paint on the edge of the mall during the fourth of July picnic and capturing it year after year - - even if it looked pretty much the same year after year. Many of us will remember his signature narration while he was painting... "Little red, little red, little blue, little blue"

This summer, the Assembly will host a show of his art at the Pulliam Center with a special reception in his honor on Sunday, June 24, 3-5 p.m. We are asking Assembly members to participate in this exciting event.

If you have a Howorth painting(s) and you are willing to share for the show or reception, please send information to Scott Parrish, including:

- painting size
- detailed description and/or photo and
- short 3-to-5 sentence story about the painting (if you have it)

Don't know if you have a Howorth? Since cottages are often bought and sold with furnishings, some Assembly members may be unaware they have one of these treasures. Almost anyone who came to MSSA before 1980 will likely be able to help you.

A Short Howorth History

In the 1920s, Joe practiced law in Greenville, Miss., with his wife, Lucy. After five years of practicing law, she was appointed as a judge, and in 1934, President Franklin D. Roosevelt appointed Lucy Somerville Howorth to the Board of Veterans Appeals, and her husband accompanied her to Washington, DC. In 1954, the couple returned to Mississippi and established a law practice together in Cleveland. In the '60s, Lucy was appointed to a task force for President John F. Kennedy's Commission on the Status of Women. Joe died in 1980 after 54 years of marriage. Lucy died in 1997 at the age of 102.

Attention tree huggers!

The Monteagle Sunday School Assembly Arboretum was recertified as a Level One Arboretum in December 2017. A few new trees were added, and there will be a survey of the common grounds conducted during the summer of 2018 to identify species to be added for Level Two certification in the future.

Pictured are Tennessee Urban Forestry Council (TUFC) Executive Director Jill Smith, TUFC Vice President Scott Woods, and TUFC board member Josiah Lockard presenting the new Arboretum Certification sign to MSSA General Manager Scott Parrish.
